Distinguished Visitors Day & Opening Ceremony

COM EUFOR addressed the parade

Exercise EUFOR Quick Response 2023 got off to a successful start with the formal opening ceremony and Distinguished Visitors Day (DVD) on 15 September 2023.

Opening Ceremony

The opening ceremony took place on the airfield in Camp Butmir. The parade was under the command of the parade commander Sgt Major Andreas Briar. All EUFOR nations were represented on parade with an excellent turn out from the marching bodies of troops. There was a large number of distinguished guests in attendance such as: EU Special Representative Ambassador Johan Sattler, BiH Minister of Defence Zukan Helez, COM NATO Brig. Gen. McGaha and many other diplomats, dignitaries and senior military officials.

COM EUFOR then addressed the parade with a speech where he reaffirmed EUFOR commitment to “all citizens of BiH” noting that “our credibility is built upon the fact that we treat all entities and all ethnicities in an impartial and equal manner”. COM EUFOR also stated “I can assure you, that together with our Reserve Forces we are strong enough to fulfil our tasks for the security of the people everywhere in BiH in the shortest time possible”. The speech ended with COM EUFORs rousing call of “One Mission” to which the parade replied in unison “One Team”.

Dynamic Display

With the parade officially dismissed the distinguished guests took their places on a specially constructed stage and display area on the airfield of Camp Butmir. COM Multinational Battalion (MNBC) Lt Col Steingress requested permission to begin the display from COM EUFOR and the scenario began immediately.

The Master of Ceremonies (MC) informed the crowd that EUFOR assistance has been requested by the authorities of BiH and COM EUFOR has put the MNBN on standby to deploy EUFOR troops. EUFOR HQ has received information from local Law Enforcement Agencies (LEAs) that an incident involving civilians being harassed by protestors is developing in the objective area of "Butmir Convention Centre". As the situation deteriorates EUFOR is notified that civilians will require urgent evacuation due to the arrival of a hostile crowd.

An overflight from a PC-6 simulated a Recon flight and marking of a Helicopter Landing Zone (HLZ). A

COM EUFOR elements.

After some attempted negotiations with the crowd by the On Scene Commander (OSC), the CRC Coy was order to move in and clear the protestors from the objective number of chinks arrived in AB212 and Mi-17 helicopters to secure the HLZ and form up the Crowd Riot Control (CRC) Coy. The airborne insertion was supplemented by a coordinated land convoy that delivered the remainder of the CRC Coy and HQ area. As the hostility of the rioters increased a member of the CRC Coy received a simulated injury and was MEDEVACed by a helicopter after EUFOR HQ received a 9-Liner. COM MNBN then authorized the use of less than lethal ammunition, simulated rubber bullets and tear gas was deployed and the crowd was pushed back from the objective area.

The CRC Coy maintained a robust cordon in the area keeping the protestors from returning to this site. This allowed for the armoured extraction force to arrive on scene and enter the objective area, the extraction team then searched the compound and extracted the civilians to a secure area.

Static display

The dynamic display officially ended with COM MNBN informing COM EUFOR that the exercise had been successfully completed. COM EUFOR then congratulated the assembled exercise troops for their efforts and invited the distinguished guests to a static display and reception. The display was comprised of the equipment and vehicles used by EUFOR during the dynamic display, as well as other capabilities such as EOD and support weapons.

The DVD was very well received and viewed as a huge success by both guests and military personnel.

Romanian Patrol

Highlights from week 1 of the exercise EUFOR Quick Response 2023

Exercise EUFOR Quick Response 2023 transitioned to the deployment phase of the exercise.

Communication Information Systems company deployed to Mount Trebevic and established a VHF antenna to ensure coverage of exercise sectors.

EUFOR practiced the immediate deployment of reserve forces and their integration into the Multinational Battalion operations by deploying three maneuver elements to their respective areas of responsibility, the Hungarian company to Tuzla, the Bulgarian company to Bihać, and the Turkish company to Čapljina.

The Romanian Coy was deployed as a QRF to support maneuver elements deployed all throughout BiH. Their primary task was to quickly respond to any serious incident and support the other companies in the fulfillment of their mission.

The companies conducted reconnaissance patrols, ground familiarization and routine framework patrols to prepare for follow on missions. The week culminated with a visit from COM EUFOR where he observed the companies responding to scenarios that involved securing of ammunition & weapons storage sites and the evacuation of LOT house personnel from hostile situations.

Highlights from week 2 of the exercise EUFOR Quick Response 2023

The final week of Exercise EUFOR Quick Response 2023 commenced with an increased tempo and focus. The objective of the exercise scenarios was to test command and control structures over forces from the operational reserve

Turkish company in Čapljina

when challenged with complex situations.

The Hungarian, Bulgarian and Turkish companies deployed to Bihać, Tuzla and Čapljina. The MNBN built on the experiences of last week and were faced by a series of intense and dynamic scenarios. Companies were practiced in securing ammunition & weapons storage sites, evacuation of friendly personnel and civilians, public order incidents and medevacs. Under the control of the MNBN Commander, a complex multi-phase exercise to secure an air-port was conducted by the Romanian Company. Logistical elements were also exercised taking place between the Austrian and Romanian companies.

The exercise concluded with a combined medal parade and closing ceremony.

The Bulgarian Company (Coy) deployed to Bihać and secured a Weapons Storage Site (containing armored vehicles & artillery) in the vicinity of Armed Forces BiH barracks 'Adil Bešić'. The Bulgarian Coy Commander deployed his troops in a perimeter and with assistance of officers from AF BiH inspected the weapons and equipment in the storage.

Exercise Combined Response 2023 between AF BiH and EUFOR

Intent

Exercise Combined Response 2023 took place in Manjaca from 16 - 19 October. Exercise Combined Response is a routine co-operative exercise between the Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovina (AFBiH) and EUFOR.

The intent of the exercise is to enhance international military relations by conducting combined AFBiH/EUFOR training activities, hosted by in training locations owned by AFBiH.

Over 220 Troops and 20 Armoured vehicles were involved throughout the exercise. AFBiH troops were drawn from 4th Brigade, with companies from Ustikolino, Livno and Čapljina and a HQ element from 3rd Battalion.

EUFOR was represented by HQ elements from the MNBN and the Türkiye Company. In addition to the exercise troops from MNBN, EUFOR HQ elements from DCOS Ops and J7 were present assisting in the planning and supervision of the exercise.

AF BiH soldiers

Training Objective

The exercise was divided into two parts, the CPX (18-29 SEP) and "LIVEX" (16-20 OCT). The CPX was primarily focused on the testing of battle staff in Peace Support Operation (PSO) strategies and procedures. The inclusion of EUFOR / MNBN enhances interoperability between multinational elements on Battalion and Company level in a non-permissive environment.

The LIVEX was based around a fictional scenario known as "Operation Chronos" which involved PSO in a buffer zone / area of separation between two parties in a conflict.

LIVEX

The LIVEX began on 16th OCT with all the exercise troops deployed to Manjaca. The exercise began with a surge of forces deployed to the AO and receipt of FRAGO.

AF BiH TTPs

The LIVEX was based around a fictional scenario known as "Operation Chronos" which involved PSO in a buffer zone / area of separation between two parties in a conflict.

The exercise serials were injected to immediately ensure a steady escalation in tempo. With exercise troops being practiced in patrolling, checkpoints and CIMIC activities. Escalating to ambush drills, CIED procedures and culminating in a large scale urban cordon and search exercise supported by Heli-Ops with a MEDEVAC.

Emphasis was placed on command and control and Tactics, Techniques and Procedures (TTPs). With interoperability being tested through ensuring effective communication in a non-permissive environment.

Distinguished Visitors Day (DVD)

COS EUFOR BG Lungo attended the DVD and observed the final exercise involving an urban Cordon & Search. COS EUFOR addressed the crowd with his speech "I would like to thank the AF BiH, specifically General MG Radovan ILIĆ and 4th Brigade for their professionalism, expertise and courtesy. I would also like to acknowledge the work of Lt Col Sack and the J7 planning team as well as the MNBN for their hard work and dedication".

Congratulations to all involved in this successful and beneficial exercise.

The Netherlands Marine Korps (Korps Mariniers)

Amphibious & special operations

What is the Marine Corps?

Amphibious and special operations. That's the most important work of the Marines. It means that the maritime light infantry units can operate at sea, land and its border. From warfare and humanitarian aid, to secret reconnaissance and counterterrorism. The corps also distinguishes itself by its expertise in the field of warfare in river deltas (riverine) and under arctic, mountainous and desert conditions.

The base of the operational marine units

The two operational marine units, the Marine Combat Groups (MCGs) form the essential basis for marine units that can be deployed directly at anytime, anywhere in the world.

These units consist of light infantry with fully integrated fire support and logistical support. The MCGs are the basis for assembling units that can independently perform all kinds of different tasks. Examples include the provision of emergency humanitarian aid to actions very high in the spectrum of violence. All tasks can be carried out on and from the sea in close cooperation with the naval fleet units.

Raiding Squadron / COY

A Raiding Squadron consists of 108 people and is divided into three Raiding Troops. The Raiding Troops are again divided into two so-called Raiding Sections. These consist of fourteen people and form the smallest maneuver elements within a Marine Combat Group that can operate independently and for a longer period of time. To be able to do that, the section is well armed and has various specialisms, such as knowledge and resources for direct fire support, precision fire, communication systems, drone-operators, marksmen's, infantry engineers and medical specialists.

Marine Combat Group

As wide as the world stretches

Amphibious operations and inland

Marines set up a mission under the harshest conditions, in a short time and with few resources. In total, the Marine Corps has about 2,300 men who are always ready to protect Dutch interests anywhere in the world. This is reflected in the age-old motto Qua Patet Orbis, "As wide as the world stretches".

Origin

The Marine Corps had its origins in the Golden Age of exploration, in the 17th century. The Republic of the Seven United Netherlands flourished in areas such as science, art and trade. Global trade brought the Republic into constant conflict with the great powers of England and Spain.

Soldiers with sea legs

The importance of global sea trade created the need for wide reaching capability to defend national interests. Grand Pensionary Johan de Witt and Admiral Michiel Adriaenszoon de Ruyter saw the usefulness of a permanent group of 'soldiers with sea legs'. Instead of the traditional land based soldiers who were attached to the fleet in certain situations.

This insight led to the formation of a regiment of naval soldiers on 10 December 1665, led by Lieutenant Colonel Willem Joseph baron van Ghent. The Marine Corps traces its lineage back to this van Ghent-led regiment. The corps' field of activity was initially mainly in the fleet, but later also in the colonies.

Today

The deployment of the Marines nowadays varies from contemporary warfare and training, to (natural) disaster relief and humanitarian aid. One minute the Marine is fighting and shortly afterwards he is providing assistance, maintaining order or training foreign soldiers. This requires the ability to quickly switch between the role of combatant, trainer, security guard and aid worker.

The Netherlands Marine Korps Full Operational Capability

Evacuation Serial

On 20th October the Netherlands Marine Corps (Korps Mariniers) Company alongside the Romanian Platoon of the MNBN successfully completed the certification exercise to confirm Full Operational Capability (FOC). FOC means that a contingent has passed all the necessary orientation and pre-deployment training and is now fully capable of deploying with MNBN. In order to achieve this status a Troop Contributing Nation (TCN) must conduct a variety of in-theater and home nation training.

Prior to the joining Op Althea in BiH, the 11 Raiding Squadron conducted pre-deployment training lasting around six months. This involved intense training in a number of different areas.

Crowd & Riot Control

One of the first objectives in the pre-deployment training was the Crowd & Riot Control (CRC) course. This course was given by the Royal Netherlands Military Police. The training started with how to use the baton and the shield and putting the different formations and commands into practice. Specialized training was given to some of the Marines in how to use tear gas and how to deal with fires and molotov cocktails. There was also a training day on the firing range on how to use the sidearm whilst carrying all the CRC equipment and moving in different formations. This course was completed by 47 Marines who are ready to conduct CRC operations.

Stakeholder Engagement Training

A completely different element of the training was the Stakeholder Engagement training. This training focused on the 'soft skills' of the Marines. The training was given to all officers and NCO's and a few other Marines of the Raiding Squadron and lasted four days. The focus during these days was on how to interact with different stakeholders, how to build a connection and how to achieve your objectives that you set for the conversations.

First aid

Mobility Training

As a light infantry unit, operating with vehicles is not our core business. Our first challenge for working with vehicles was to make sure we had enough Marines with the right driver licenses for the unarmored vehicles (Volkswagen Amaroks and Land Rovers) and for the armored vehicles (Bushmasters).

Every Raiding Troop did one week of mobility training with the unarmored vehicles. This week included driving skills, driving in formations, contact drills, medical lessons and maintenance of the vehicles. All three Raiding Troops also conducted mobility training with the Bushmasters, focusing on formations, contact drills and practicing various actions on.

Mission Focused Education

The last objective was the Mission Focused Education. This was a full week of theoretical education, mandatory for everyone going on deployment. This education included various subjects such as a general awareness brief, the historical background of Bosnia and Herzegovina and cyber awareness.

FOC Exercise

The FOC exercise took place in Hotel Igman outside Sarajevo. During this exercise the contingent accompanied by a Platoon from the Romanian Armed Forces demonstrated their operational capabilities, with a number of dynamic serials testing everything from first aid and CASEVAC to company level tactical deployments. The exercises were conducted by COM MNBN who then certified the contingents as having achieved FOC to COM EUFOR and clearing them for deployment.

MNBN Transfer of Authority

COM EUFOR attended a Transfer of Authority ceremony to officially transfer command of the Multinational Battalion from Lt Col Steingress to Lt Col Lampl of BiH Armed Forces. COM EUFOR congratulated LTC Steingress for the professionalism of the MNBN & formally welcomed LTC Lampl.
